

The Courier.—From every portion of the state we have the most lively assurances of success. We have just conversed with a gentleman from the northern part of the State, who assures us that Gov. McNutt will not lose his thousand votes in the Chickasaw counties. Our informant is a member of the Legislature, an intelligent man, and extensively acquainted. He says the negroes as well as democrats have become tired of self-punishment and post-punishment, and have resolved to go for McNutt and good money. The truth is, the people have heard the false prophecy of no wages until they are tired of it. They see it is necessary to sustain men who have the honesty and independence to reform this awful currency.

They see that all the banks, Union as well as others, must be reformed, and made to do their duty. They are beginning to comprehend the character of the tax which they are compelled to pay.
